Wearing military uniforms and medals

This paper answers the questions whether it is an offence in Germany to impersonate a member of the armed forces by wearing a uniform without permission and whether it is an offence for an individual to wear military medals or decorations that he/she has not been awarded.

In accordance with para 132a, subpara 1, no. 4 of the German Criminal Code (Strafgesetzbuch – StGB)¹ wearing domestic or foreign uniforms, vestments or insignia in Germany without permission is a punishable offence that can be sentenced by imprisonment up to one year or by a fine.

However, the Criminal Code does not cover the misuse of domestic or foreign medals or decorations. Thus, persons who wear military medals or decorations that they have not been awarded do not commit a crime.

But in accordance with para. 15 of the Law on Titles, Medals and Decorations (Gesetz über Titel, Orden und Ehrenzeichen – OrdenG)², illegitimately wearing military medals or decorations is an administrative offence that can be fined. In accordance with para. 15 of the Law on Titles, Medals and Decorations however, para. 15 is only applicable to those medals and decorations that have been either awarded by the Federal President or endowed with his permission.
